STARTED TO ENFORCE THE LAW

HIGH SHERIFF STARTS A CRUSADE AT LAST AGAINST THE TWILEI SECTION.

The enforcement of the law by the Police department was finally inaugurated last night by Sheriff Henry. A crusade was started against Twilei. A number of arrests were made. Six women, Japanese and French, were arraigned today before Judge Whitney on charges of violating the prohibition law. Male companions of the women were also caught last night and charged in the police court with the offence. Some of those arrested were soldiers from the transport Sherman which happened to be in port.

The news that the police were making a raid on the denizens of the Red Light District spread in very brief time last night and within a little time after the first arrests were made, the women began to disappear from their haunts and quiet resigned, although there was a suppressed air of excitement. The place had been lively enough though for there were plenty of soldiers about the place before the police made their presence known.

The action of the High Sheriff is suddenly beginning to attempt to enforce the law, was the result of several conferences he had had with Governor Carter. The attitude of the Governor seeking to attain high ideals in his departments of the government, is so well known that it seems unnecessary to say that the action of the High Sheriff was the direct result of Executive pressure.

Not only will the law against the actual violation of the moral laws be enforced, but the laws holding owners of property leased and used for immoral purposes, responsible, will also be strictly enforced. The Fidelity Insurance Company will be among the first to receive notice of the alleged improper use of its property at Twilei.

It is the intention of the High Sheriff he says, to enforce the law. Not only will it be enforced against the people in the Twilei district but in all districts throughout the Territory.

CONSORTED WITH LEPROUS WOMEN

ASTONISHING CASE OF UTTER RECKLESS DISREGARD ON PART OF TWO YOUNG NATIVES.

An astonishing case of utter disregard for their own as well as the public safety came to light in the police court this morning. Two native boys, Edward Ahapai and Ben Kuali, were charged with having been found on the premises of the Kailua detention camp last night without permission, in violation of Section 121 of the Revised Statutes.

From the admission of the boys they appear to have acted in the most reckless way, aside from the mere act of gaining admission to the place without permission. They admitted that they had gone into the place for the purpose of sleeping with women inmates of the camp, inmates who were held there under suspicion of being afflicted with leprosy. The boys freely admitted that the women were thought to have the disease but that fact made no difference to the witnesses. They wanted to pass the night in company of the women and had done so. And not only had they visited the place last night, but they claimed to have been there on numerous previous occasions. They asserted that the turnkey at the camp had invited and permitted them to go inside and remain with the women. The youths asserted that it had been customary for them to go to the place at midnight and remain until 4 o'clock in the morning. The turnkey had told them, they claimed, that it would be all right, if they kept quiet and got away by that time.

The statements about the youths getting into the camp through permission of the turnkey or guard, is denied by those in charge at the camp. It is claimed that the boys were in the habit of climbing the fence. Judge Whitney fined the youths $100 each, the limit provided by law. Inasmuch as neither can probably raise this sum it is probable that they will have to serve the equivalent in time.

EDITOR ARRESTED

Y. Kimura, editor of the Japanese Daily Chronicle, was arrested today at the instance of United States District Attorney Brackens, on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails. The charge is based on some publications which have been appearing lately in the paper, in the Japanese language.

SAW MILL COMPANY TO MARKET KOA

ENTERPRISE INAUGURATED ON THE ISLAND OF HAWAII—MILLIONS OF FEET IN SIGHT.

HILO, April 4. Richley returned from Honolulu last week, having secured from the Bishop Estate a lease for five years of 4,000 acres of koa timber land in the vicinity of the Volcano House. A company has already been started with Mr. Richley at the head, with a capital of $25,000, which will shortly erect a mill about two miles back of the Volcano House and proceed to cut down the matured koa timber of marketable size and quality on the leased Bishop Estate lands.

According to Mr. Richley, in which opinion Forester Hosmer coincides, there are millions of feet of valuable koa lumber going to waste on the slopes of Mauna Kea. Some of the trees will measure seven feet in diameter, and it is Mr. Richley's purpose to cut these trees into square timbers for better handling for shipment. There is a steady increasing demand for hard wood lumber on the coast and in the East, where it is proposed to market the large supply of koa now in sight. Some of the older trees are beginning to decay, and the trustees of Bishop Estate decided to enter into a timber contract to save loss and waste to the forests. The only limit in cutting placed on Mr. Richley's company is that trees less than two feet cannot be removed unless fully matured. Matured trees, it is said, begin to rot, and it has been deemed advisable to clear the forest of all marketable koa.

Mr. Richley has entered into a contract to sell all the bark he can supply and he proposes to erect a complete plant on the spot, including a saw mill, planer, matcher, bark grinder and other machinery. When the active logging work begins, the new company will probably employ fifty or sixty men.
